

Rachael Finch

2009 Miss Universe Australia, media presenter and speaker

Rachael Finch is the glamorous young woman with an infectious personality who represented Australia in the Miss Universe competition in the Bahamas in 2009. Since returning to Australia following the Miss Universe Competition, she has been the face of commercial brands such as Toni and Guy and Temelli Jewellery. She has also competed on Channel Ten's hit show, Celebrity Masterchef where she was placed third and on Channel Seven's Dancing with the Stars.

Rachael's drive, energy and accomplished speaking skills, coupled with her stunning looks and personality make her the perfect celebrity to host your next corporate event, conference or gala.

More about Rachael Finch:

Rachael Finch was born in Sydney but raised in Townsville. As a teenager, Rachael's modelling career kick started in 2004 when she won the Queensland Model of the Year title at the annual Fashion Bash Awards. Having completed her education, Rachael travelled the world, appearing in a number of high profile magazines, including Cleo, Grazier, and Seventeen as well as representing the Australian brand, Jets Swimwear, and high end labels including Louis Vuitton, Chanel and Max & Co.

Rachael's passion for the television and media industry became clear when she worked as a media representative and co-organised the Fashion Bash in 2008.

In pursuit of a television and media career, she undertook a television presenting course at the Sydney Academy of Film and Television and has since successfully showed her presenting talent when she hosted Sydney's Earth Festival on Foxtel's EWTV in 2008.

Rachael is working on a book aimed at inspiring young people to achieve their dreams. She supports the Heart Foundation, The Ronald McDonald House and Camp Quality.
