More about Mark Tonelli:

Amongst Mark Tonelli's sporting achievements, he is Australia's most versatile all-rounder having won multiple-gold at Australian and International Championships in freestyle butterfly and backstroke. He was Captain of the Australian Swimming Team and honoured as Captain of the Australian Team of the Year, a fitting reward for his leadership before and during the Moscow Olympics where he won his most distinguished Gold Medal as the 'flyer' on the 4 by 100 medley relay at Moscow.

Following the 1980 Olympics, Mark was invited onto the Australian Sports Commission by Prime Minister Bob Hawke as an Inaugural Commissioner and served on the elite athletes standing committee, strategic planning and taxation committees.

Marks intimate knowledge of sport and his honours degree in broadcast and film communications led him into broadcasting. He was a commentator for the swimming, kayaking and diving events at the Olympics in Los Angeles and again in Seoul, as well as the ABC, Radio 2UE, and the TEN network covering Australian, Commonwealth and World championships for the past two decades including Sydney and Athens.

In business, Mark's credentials are impeccable. As a real estate agent Mark has sold over $100 million worth of residential properties. He is in demand on the speaking circuit and hosts a weekly national television show about Australian Real Estate.

Importantly, Mark Tonelli knows how tenths of a second can change a lifetime and insists the difference between sport and business is attitude and he has plenty of it to share with his audiences.

He cleverly uses the international sports arena as a platform for very real lessons about succeeding in today's tough business world, whether his presentation is for executives, managers, sales staff or anybody who needs to perform better in a team environment.
