

Victoria Carthew

Journalist, TV presenter and MC

Victoria Carthew is a respected journalist, presenter, broadcaster and MC.

Victoria has worked at the Seven Network for more than three decades and is currently a presenter with the Seven Network's popular travel and lifestyle program, 'Weekender', where she travels the state showcasing the best in tourism, food, wine and adventure, with a particular passion for Eco-tourism and the Outback.

She made her name as a sports journalist and presenter across a variety of sports (from Olympics and Commonwealth Games to Rugby League or AFL - she was Australian TV's first female boundary rider) and has also regularly been a voice on talkback radio for ABC and 4BC. She is still heavily involved in sports in several capacities.

Victoria MC's business and sports events for the Brisbane Broncos a host of the Queensland's top awards evenings. She is also a regular conference and event facilitator, working across health, business, hospitality, aviation and shipping and logistics.

Victoria is co-host the QBD Book Club and Crime Club, as well as the QBD Book Club Podcast, interviewing some to the Worlds top authors each month, including the likes of Lord Jeffrey Archer, Michael Connelly, Matthew Reilly and Trent Dalton. 'Off stage and screen' she is a board director, committee chair, fundraiser and volunteer for various charities and of a non-expert kid wrangler. She's also a proud member of the Point Lookout SLSC.

Client testimonials

“ Working with Victoria over the past 8 years, there is no presenter/MC that I trust more in 'steering the ship' at Broncos events. Vic is effortless in delivery, in no small part attributed to the behind the scenes homework she puts in. She has an incredible knack for getting the best out of people she shares the stage with and her personability and warmth make audiences feel connected and at ease. Vic has hosted everything from intimate VIP dinners to gala dinners for 1500 and she is never short of fantastic.

“ I have had the pleasure of securing Victoria Carthew as MC for a number of engagements ranging from commercial and corporate to charity events. Victoria has the ability to engage the audience be that large or small! and that great gift to be able to ‘control’ the audience whilst letting them enjoy each other’s company, but making sure the speakers are heard and the messages get across. An example of that, Victoria has run a series for us of ‘panel interviews’ for ‘Legends for Lifeline’ these have been a huge success and are now annual events. Working with Victoria is a pleasure as she is so helpful, organised and willing to make suggestions whilst regularly preparing prior to the event. I would recommend anybody looking for a Professional MC to speak with Victoria! happy to speak further.
