

Nathan Earl

MC, TV Producer/Director, Wine Satirist

Nathan Earl is a popular and in demand MC, combining his wit, knowledge of wine and professionalism and has hosted the NSW Wine Awards and Hunter Wine Awards, to name a few. He is multi-talented and versatile, an Emmy nominated Television Writer, Producer and Director, who's worked extensively in the Australian TV industry; most notably in the genres of comedy and political satire.

His list of TV credits are impressive and include The Chaser's War on Everything, Review with Myles Barlow, The 7:30 Report, Lawrence Leung's Choose Your Own Adventure, Adam Hills in Gordon Street Tonight, The New Inventors, Balls of Steel, Wanted, The Checkout and the Andrew Denton produced Hungry Beast.

Nathan has also consulted for a number of established advertising agencies such as Leo Burnett and Clemenger BBDO and produced branded content and TV commercials for the likes of Malibu, Connex, The Commonwealth Bank, 7Eleven, the ARU, Tourism Australia, Citibank and Dulux.

Nathan served as Showrunner, Writer & Director on the award-winning web series The Great Crusade, which took out Gold and Bronze Lion honours at the Cannes Lions awards.

More about Nathan Earl:

Born and raised in the Hunter Valley, Nathan comes from a wine family, and has spent many years in and around the Australian wine scene.

From these foundations, he created, wrote and directed the comedy series Plonk, which screened across multiple TV networks, online, the streaming service Stan, and airlines Qantas and Virgin.

VIEW SPEAKER'S BIO ONLINE 