

Tommy Little

Comedian, MC and Presenter

Tommy Little is a critically acclaimed comedian, a familiar face on Australian television and a much loved voice of radio.

Smart, engaging, charming and confident, he is also a talented MC who knows how to hold the room in the palm of his hand. With irresistible energy, Tommy has MC'd events for blue chip companies including Sony, Optus and Austereo.

More about Tommy Little:

Tommy Little is one of the country's most exciting comedians, having smashed it at festivals and clubs around the country and overseas since he hit the comedy scene in 2007. Energetic, surprising and completely engaging, he has enjoyed both sold-out shows and rave reviews.

As well as continuously touring the country with his critically acclaimed comedy, Tommy is an increasingly familiar face on our television screens. He has hosted the Comedy Channel's Whose Line is It Anyway? Australia, the Just for Laughs Stand Up Series live from the Sydney Opera House and the Melbourne International Comedy Festival's Big Three-Oh! series. Tommy is also a regular fill-in guy for the funny chair and reporter on Network Ten's The Project, a role which has gained him national attention. On top of being the go-to fill in during the week, was appointed as the permanent host of The Sunday Project which premiered in late 2017.

Tommy is also one of Australia's premier radio broadcasters, having co-hosted Nova 100's breakfast team in Melbourne with fellow comedian and good friend Meshel Laurie, and hosted an afternoon show on the HIT network with friend and Project host Carrie Bickmore.
