

Morris Misel

Global Business Futurist, Foresight Strategist, Adviser

Not your typical futurist. Morris Misel isn't here to paint a rosy picture of the future. He's here to ignite conversations that spark action.

With a 30+ year track record as Australia's most sought-after business futurist, Morris isn't just a speaker - he's a trusted advisor who decodes the complexities of the future and translates them into tangible strategies for your business.

Wisdom Whispers Through the Years. There's a reason Morris's insights and foresights are so powerful. He possesses the wisdom that only comes from longevity and breadth in the field. Having witnessed and interpreted every major change since the dawn of the mobile phone era, through today's AI possibilities Morris offers a unique perspective most others simply can't replicate.

There's a comforting sense of security knowing you're in safe hands with someone who has seen it all before and can guide you through the uncharted territory ahead. His ability to identify and interpret weak and strong signals empowers him to anticipate these changes, navigate potential disruptions, and position your business for success in the years to come.

Beyond the Tech Hype. Don't mistake him for a tech evangelist. While Morris understands the power of technology, his true passion lies in understanding its impact on humanity.

He's not a slave to the latest gadgets; he's a keen observer of how technology shapes our lives.

All his foresights and recommendations are based on a fundamental understanding of human behaviour, not just the capabilities of machines.

Challenging the Status Quo. Morris thrives on challenging the status quo. He's a radical free thinker who isn't afraid to ask uncomfortable questions. This stems from his early experiences as a crisis counsellor and volunteer prison chaplain and his constant quest to understand the human condition. He also lectured in Management and Marketing for 15 years. This depth of knowledge and experience allows him to connect with audiences and clients of all levels, from C-suite executives to young professionals.

The Introverted Sparkplug. Despite his stage presence, Morris is an admitted introvert. This allows him to focus on the nuances of your business, crafting a hyper-personalized approach that goes beyond generic presentations.

Proven Impact. With over 850 articles, podcasts, radio appearances, and TV slots dating back to 2005, Morris's influence is undeniable. He's not just a speaker; he's a thought leader who has shaped conversations about the future for over two decades.

Morris equips you with the knowledge and strategies you need to thrive in what's to come.

Morris Miselowski talks about:

- Strata Management 2030: What's changing in community management, governance, and stakeholder expectations?
- The Taskforce of Tomorrow - The Humand© Approach: How AI, automation, robots, and human expertise will shape the future workforce in strata, construction and beyond
- Future Built Environments & Smart Properties: How real estate, construction, and property management will be transformed by new living, working, technological and infrastructure trends and future needs.
- The Next Decade of Housing & Development: What changes in regulations, buyer expectations, and development strategies mean for property professionals.
- Strategic Foresight for Strata & Real Estate: AI, workforce shifts, societal shifts and policy changes—how these forces are reshaping property, construction, and strata management.

VIEW SPEAKER'S BIO ONLINE 